Citizens protest drug rehabilitation center

Council withdraws report

By Lynne Locke

Upland City Council Monday night voted to withdraw a Planning Department report to the county that the Mont Vista Lodge drug and alcohol rehabilitation center in San Antonio Heights would have no adverse effect on the community, but the council refused to take a stand either favoring or opposing the facility.

The San Bernardino County Board of Supervisors will hold a public hearing 3 p.m. Monday to consider a citizen appeal requesting reversal of the county Planning Commission's approval of the Mont Vista Lodge site plan.

The council voted to inform supervisors that, after hearing testimony from both sides in the issue, the council was withdrawing the city's statement that the rehabilitation center would have no adverse impact on the community.

Planning Director Rod Anderson said the city planning staff had made a "general statement indicating no adverse effect" after a " cursory review" of information provided by the county.

San Antonio Heights and north Upland residents have objected to the facility, near Euclid Avenue and 24th Street, because "drug addicts, alcoholics and people previously imprisoned for antisocial behavior" come into close contact with neighborhood children.

Operators of the facility support the location within the community as necessary to successful rehabilitation and note the facility allows people to live with their families while undergoing rehabilitation.

Council members indicated concern about the professional qualifications of the Mont Vista Lodge staff, lack of official guidelines for running such a facility, and neighborhood hostility to the rehabilitation center.

Bruce Clafin, representing the Concerned Citizens League, said residents do not oppose the rehabilitation program but feel it is in the wrong place. Such a facility should be located where there is "some reasonable buffer" so the facility can be "policed" and the neighborhood isn't "driven into friction" by close contact with the center.

The hostility of a neighborhood "trying to protect its children" will work against rehabilitation, he added.

Clafin referred to one incident in which a 1 1/2-year-old girl had found a bottle of pills hidden in her backyard near the facility and suggested the possible tragedy if she had decided "to play doctor" with the pills.

Jim Wilson, operator of Mont Vista Lodge, noted the center is the only one of its kind with facilities for families and children so people can work out their problems in a family setting.

Local residents do not need to worry about the welfare of their children because the center's residents are carefully screened. "We wouldn't subject our own children to sex deviates and criminals," he added.

The center's operators also noted the San Bernardino County Sheriff's Department has no record of problems caused by residents at Mont Vista Lodge.

Local law enforcement officers "haven't hesitated" to bring drunken middle class women to the center instead of sending them to jail, Executive Director Julie Scott commented and added, "The way to settle the problem is for the community to volunteer some time and see the situation."

Upland resident Arthur Wells said, "I'm ashamed of the reaction in this room. We should have a little heart. Those people are in trouble."

Planning Commission sets public hearings

Upland Planning Commission 7:30 p.m. Feb. 26 will hold public hearings to consider a zoning ordinance limiting business hours; a conditional use permit to establish a residential home for mentally retarded teenagers; a conditional use permit to establish a gun club; as well as zone changes and subdivision maps.

The zoning amendment would prohibit business activities and deliveries 11 p.m.-6 a.m. in C-2 (neighborhood shops) zones. The amendment will be considered by the City Council after the Planning Commission makes a recommendation on the proposed amendment.

A conditional use permit is being requested to establish a residential care home for 17 mentally retarded teenagers. The facility, licensed by the state, would be established on two lots at the northwest corner of Euclid Avenue and Ninth Street in a planned unit civic center zone.

The commission will consider a conditional use permit to reestablish a trap and skeet gun club in an agricultural zone northeast of 20th Street and Euclid Avenue.

The commission also will consider a condition use permit for a fish and chips take-out restaurant in the Upland Square Shopping Center at the northwest corner of San Antonio Avenue and Foothill Boulevard.

Proposed zone changes include: —Zone change from agricultural to single-family residential with a minimum lot size of 10,000 square feet for 10.8 acres northwest of San Antonio Avenue and 20th Street.

—Zone change from agricultural to single-family residential with a minimum lot size of 7,500 square feet for 4.8 acres southeast of 15th Street and Benson Avenue.

—Zone change from agricultural to single-family residential with a minimum lot size of 7,500 square feet for 14.5 acres southeast of 14th Street and Benson Avenue.

—Zone change from agricultural to single-family residential with a minimum lot size of 15,000 square feet for 10 acres northeast of Euclid Avenue and 19th Street.

—Zone change from agricultural to single-family residential with a minimum lot size of 10,000 square feet for 33.8 acres northwest of Mountain Avenue and 22nd Street and for 15 acres at the southwest corner of Mountain Avenue and 23rd Street.

—Prezone change from low-density residential to single-family residential with a minimum lot size of 10,000 square feet for 10.4 acres in unincorporated territory northwest of Wilson Avenue and 16th Street. The zone change would become effective when the area is annexed by Upland.

The Planning Commission will also consider five subdivision maps. For information call the city Planning Department, 982-1352.

Homemakers help elderly, disabled

By Lynne Locke

Cooking meals, washing clothes, grocery shopping, paying bills and cleaning house — all a necessary part of life. But what about the elderly, disabled or blind who cannot perform these chores by themselves?

Thirty homemakers spend a minimum of two hours a week doing such basic home tasks for 300 West End residents who qualify for the Homemaker Service of the Community Services Agency, funded by the state and federal government.

The free Homemaker Service provides necessary care so the 300 clients can stay in their own homes as long as possible, according to Jean Davis, homemaker coordinator for Montclair, Chino and Ontario.

The homemaker's work and number of hours are individually tailored to each client's needs. About 95 per cent of the clients need help with house cleaning, but some are proud to be able to do their own housework, Mrs. Davis said and added, "We try to keep them as independent as possible."

A few of the clients need daily help with cooking or personal care, but most need help only once or twice weekly with cleaning and laundry.

Homemakers also help with grocery shopping when necessary but many clients have friends or relatives who help take them shopping — a trip which may be the client's "only chance to get out of the house," noted Mrs. Davis.

Although the homemaker starts out just to do the housework, homemakers and clients become friends, according to Lucille West, homemaker coordinator for Upland, Cucamonga and Alta Loma.

Clients look forward to seeing their homemakers who may be the only person they see regularly, she said and added, "I tell the homemakers not to get too involved, but it's pretty hard not to."

Mrs. West said the Homemaker Service tries to match client and homemaker personalities, but sometimes they don't get along. The service will switch homemakers if necessary, but she said, the service prefers for the homemaker and client to try to work out the problem.

A problem may arise around the type of service since homemakers are limited in the tasks they can do. Mrs. Davis said homemakers are not allowed to move heavy furniture or to dust valuables or knickknacks.

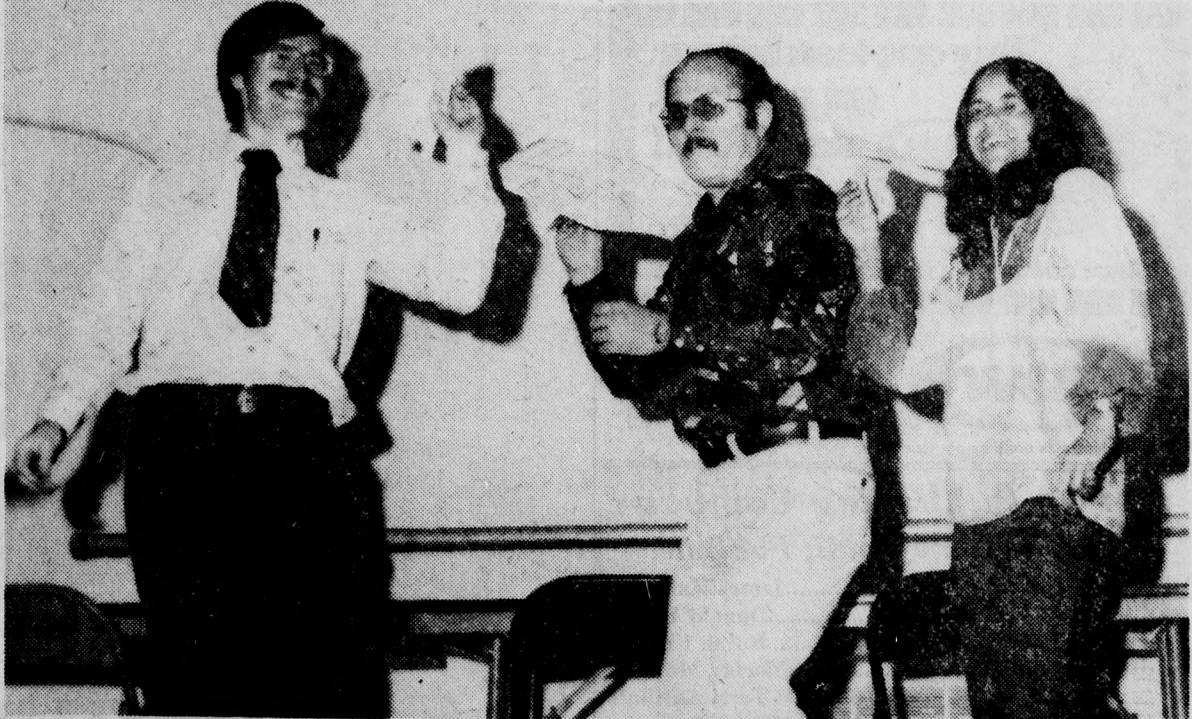

The Homemaker Service also aids the homemakers, who range in age from 20-67 years, according to Mrs. West, who said women about over 45 years often have difficulty finding a job if they don't have previous work experience. The homemaker job is "good, steady work with good benefits" and a monthly training program, she said.

Several of the homemakers are receiving social security and can work four hours daily without losing social security benefits, Mrs. Davis said.

"They feel better going out every day. They keep young by doing something for others," she said and added many of the older homemakers are especially dependable and dedicated to their jobs.

Training programs include speakers on the problems of the elderly or disabled. A program about death was especially important because homemakers lose clients to death and occasionally are the one to discover their client-friend has died, Mrs. West said.

PAPER PLANES — Upland Recreation Department employees (from left) Larry Thornburg, Dave Holt and Linda Feliciano try their hand at creating and flying paper airplanes for the Upland paper airplane flying contest 1-4 p.m. Sunday at Upland High School gym. Participants, 1-18 years old, will provide materials including paper, paperclips, staples, glue or tape and construct airplanes before contest time.

Winning airplanes in each division will be sent to national championships. Airplanes entered in design division must also compete in another division. All other airplanes are limited to one division, including aerobatics, distance, and time aloft. Trophies will be awarded in each division. For information call 985-0994. (Photo by Lynne Locke)

Alta Loma district Students ranked in skills

Alta Loma second and third grade students ranked below their anticipated range in the recently released results of the state student achievement testing program.

Sixth graders, however, scored above their predicted range in two basic skills areas, and within their expected ranking band in two other tests.

The tests, administered last spring, asked sixth grade students questions in four academic skills — reading, written expression, spelling and math. Second and third graders were tested only in reading.

Results were reported in three sections:

- Percentage of correct answers.
- Percentile ranking, which was computed by identifying the state's school district scoring at the state median point and, according to percentage of correct answers, ranking half the state's districts above and the other half below the 50th percentile.

— The district's placement in relation to a "comparison" ranking band, which formerly was called an expectancy band.

The comparison band ranges from 25 per cent above to 25 per cent below the score a district would achieve if it performed at the state median level, after adjustment was made for past test scores and, most important, economic and other background factors.

Test results for the Alta Loma School District are:

— Second grade reading: percentile rank, 15 (which means 85 per cent of the state's 4,756 elementary-level districts ranked higher); comparison ranking band, 48th to 74th percentile (below anticipated range); correct answers, 57.2 per cent; state median district's correct answers, 69.7 per cent.

— Third grade reading: percentile rank, 29; comparison ranking band, 45th to 76th percentile (below anticipated range); correct answers, 79.1 per cent; state median district's correct answers, 83.9 per cent.

— Sixth grade reading: percentile rank, 66; comparison ranking band, 36th to 56th percentile (above anticipated range); correct answers, 60 per cent; state median district's correct answers, 57.2 per cent.

— Sixth grade written expression: percentile ranking, 54; comparison ranking band, 40th to 59th percentile (within anticipated range); correct answers, 53 per cent; state median district's correct answers, 52.3 per cent.

— Sixth grade spelling: percentile ranking, 69; comparison ranking band, 35th to 58th percentile (above anticipated range); correct answers, 52.8 per cent; state median district's correct answers, 49.6 per cent.

— Sixth grade math: percentile ranking, 50; comparison ranking band, 43rd to 63rd percentile (within anticipated range); correct answers, 50.1 per cent.

QUESTION: For trees that are in the public right of way that need to be trimmed, who do we call? M.A.S.

ANSWER: Call 982-1352 and make your request to have the trees trimmed. Someone from the Street Department will inspect the trees to ascertain the immediacy of the service request. If it is determined that the trees are not in immediate need of trimming, the request will be placed on a priority list. However, if the trees are found with excessive growth, the trimming will be completed in a short period of time.

QUESTION: Are homes and apartments required to have their swimming pools enclosed? If so, how high do the enclosures have to be and is this a state or the city's requirement? D.H.

ANSWER: The Upland Municipal Code states "All

swimming pools shall be entirely enclosed by buildings, or by fences or walls not less than five nor more than six feet in height. All such enclosures shall be constructed as to prohibit the penetration of a solid object which measures four inches in its last dimension." Requirements are both state and city.

QUESTION: What departments does the city have and who are the directors? K.H.

ANSWER: This does not take into account the elected officials. However, the departments and department heads are: Police Chief John Wessely; Fire Chief Leon Lamphear; building, Robert Sullivan; engineering, Fred Blanchard; finance, Robert Kendro; planning, Rodney Anderson; library, Kathleen Bernath; water, Harry Rohrbach; recreation, Fred Taunton; personnel, Mary Ann Reiss; central services, Harold Terry; general services, Kenneth Hoover; and community relations, John Shoemaker.

QUESTION: I am interested in becoming a queen candidate for the "Gran Baile Blanco Y Negro" that is sponsored by Upland's Town Affiliation Association. Where may I receive more information? P.P.

ANSWER: You have contacted the right department and person. Information regarding the event will be forwarded to you.

QUESTION: Does the city have some place where I could display some Bicentennial material? J.B.

ANSWER: Yes. You should contact Betty Maxie at the Upland Library. She is in charge of displays. Phone 982-1561.

Upland Elementary test scores mixed

Upland School District second grade students ranked within their anticipated reading ability range in the recently released results of state tests of basic skills. However, third graders scored below their predicted minimum level.

Sixth grade students scored below their anticipated level in three of the four testing categories.

The tests, administered last spring, questioned sixth grade students in four academic skills — reading, written expression, spelling and math. Second and third graders were tested only in reading.

Results were reported in three sections:

- Percentage of correct answers.
- Percentile ranking, which was computed by identifying the state's school district scoring at the state median point and, according to percentage of correct answers, ranking half the state's districts above and the other half below the 50th percentile.

— The district's in relation to a "comparison" ranking band, which formerly was called an expectancy band.

The comparison band ranges from 25 per cent above to 25 per cent below the score a district would achieve if it performed at the state median level, after adjustment was made for past test scores and, most importantly, economic and other background factors.

The state-furnished scores for the Upland School District are:

- Second grade reading: percentile rank, 71 (which means Upland scored higher than 71 per cent of the state's 4,756 elementary-level districts); comparison ranking band, 68th to 87th percentile (within anticipated range); correct answers, 74.2 per cent; state median district's correct answers, 69.7 per cent.

— Third grade reading: percentile rank, 59, with a comparison ranking band from the 60th to 89th percentile (Upland was below the anticipated range); correct answers, 85.5 per cent; state median district's correct answers, 83.9 per cent.

— Sixth grade reading: percentile rank, 69; comparison ranking band, 65th to 77th percentile (within anticipated range); correct answers, 60.8 per cent; state median district's correct answers, 57.2 per cent.

— Sixth grade written expression: percentile rank, 63; comparison ranking band, 65th to 77th percentile (below anticipated range); correct answers, 54.9 per cent; state median district's correct answers, 52.3 per cent.

— Sixth grade spelling: percentile rank, 61; comparison ranking band, 62nd to 76th percentile (below anticipated range); correct answers, 51.1 per cent; state median district's correct answers, 49.6 per cent.

— Sixth grade math: percentile rank, 56; comparison ranking band, 66th to 78th percentile (below anticipated range); correct answers, 51 per cent; state median district's correct answers, 50.1 per cent.

Each elementary school in the Upland district was provided test results for that campus. Scores for individual students, however, aren't available under the state's matrix sampling test procedure.

Elementary schools in the Upland district are: Baldy View, Cabrillo, Citrus, Foothill Knolls, Magnolia, Sierra Vista, Sycamore, Upland Elementary and Valencia.

Under the matrix testing system, each student was given a portion of the total test. The final result was compiled by pooling all the answers and computing a percentage of correctly answered questions.

Glenn M. Hardy, business manager, Tuesday presented trustees with a progress report on the activities of the "Citizens' Committee on School Boundaries."

Superintendent Bill R. Plaster has presented the committee with information indicating Valencia School, in northwest Upland, has run out of classroom space. Magnolia School, located at 465 W. 15th St., is also approaching capacity, the administration has reported.

Since the Valencia and Magnolia areas are experiencing the district's most concentrated housing construction, the need for boundary changes is apparent, Plaster has said.

Douglas Martin, left, a teacher at Alta Loma High School, is one of the two Chaffey Union High School District teachers conducting classes where students review for the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT). Here he is helping Jim Bradley, a Chaffey College student who has taken the SAT, and Lynne Bradley, an Upland High School student. The course is being sponsored by the Assistance League of Upland to enable local students to be better prepared to pass the SAT, a requirement for entry in four-year colleges and universities. The 2½ hour examination measures verbal and mathematical reasoning developed by students during their school years.

SAT preparatory classes slated

A course is being presented for area high school students who are preparing for college and for college students arranging to transfer to other colleges or universities.

This course, sponsored by the Assistance League of Upland, is designed to help students review for the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT), a 2½-hour examination measuring verbal and mathematical reasoning developed by students during their school years.

California state colleges and universities, as well as public and private colleges across the nation, require the SAT test for entrance and use the scores along with high school records as a measure of academic skill and a predictor of the students' ability to do college-level work.

SAT tests are scheduled six times a year, and a student may take them as many times as he desires, even consecutively. The highest scores are used for entrance and/or placement by the school to which the student applies.

The next course, scheduled prior to the April 3 examination, will be held from 7 to 10 p.m. on March 16, 18, 23, 25 and 30 and April 1 at the Assistance League Center, 8593 Archibald Ave., Cucamonga. Students are reminded the registration deadline for the April test is Feb. 27 with late registration being accepted until March 12.

The SAT Preparatory Classes are limited to 30 students at a time. Douglas Martin and Edwin Norene, two Chaffey Union High School District teachers, conduct the classes. Each teacher meets with a group of 15 students for 1½ hours at every session.

After the last course, Norene expressed the teachers' feelings. "We both realize many of the kids are scared to paleness at the prospect of having their ambitions and dreams hinge on the SAT score. Hopefully our work with them will have put a tint of color in their complexions so they will feel a bit more sure of themselves at the 11th hour."

Tuition for the course is designated for the teachers' consultant fees. Books and refreshments are provided by the Assistance League of Upland, a non-profit, philanthropic organization. For information and registration, call 984-4251 or 982-4601. Attempts to arrange transportation will be made on request.

Lady Anglers install officers

The Pomona Valley Lady Anglers held the annual trophy awards banquet and installation at Red Hill Country Club, Cucamonga.

Local students will compete

Journalism students from the Chaffey Union High School District are competing Saturday in the Inland Journalism Education Association's On-The-Spot Writing Tournament at the University of Redlands.

The tournament is for all junior and senior high school newspaper students in San Bernardino and Riverside counties. Areas of competition include the four categories of news, editorials, features and sports.

Trophies, certificates and cash awards are being presented with those students who place eligible to compete in the April 24 Southern California Journalism Education Association Write-off at Schurr High School in Montebello.

The 1975 Sweepstakes champion Chaffey High is being represented by 10 students including: Cynthia S. Walker (1975 feature writing champion); Mary Lou Aguirre (1975 news writing winner); Charles Bentley and Scott Davis (who placed last year in sports); and Sandra Walker, Connie Tiney, Linda Glenn, Mike Bare, Mary Ann Wisniewski and Henry Stricker. Blaine Huber is an alternate.

Ontario High journalists include Rena Floyd, Paula Paschick, Teresa Rokey, Jack Morgan, Ruth Barnes, Linda Pata, Robin Auvant, Cathy Michaud and Cheryl Brown.

Upland writers are Ben Simpson, Steve Morris, John Fleck, Bob Reay, Keith Larr, Ray Parker, Tom Edgington, Jamie Sivodon.

Registration begins at 8:30 a.m. in the Casa Loma Room of the Commons. Awards presentation should conclude by 2:30 p.m.

Typewriters will not be furnished, but students may bring their own typewriters if they desire. Stories are not required to be typed.

Journalists will have a presentation in each writing category and interview guest speakers. They will then use their notes to write stories during a limited time period. Professional journalists will rate their stories according to journalism standards and select the top ones submitted.

Presbyterian youth set rummage sale

A rummage sale, sponsored by the Spirit of '76, the high school group of the First Presbyterian Church of Upland, will be held 4-9 p.m. Friday and 9 a.m.-4 p.m. Saturday at the church, 869 N. Euclid Ave. Valuable collectibles and antiques will also be available for the interested bidder. They will be sold on a profit-sharing basis. A food and snack concession will be open continuously during the sale. Home-baked items may also be purchased.

Funds earned will help finance the group's tour to Europe in July. To better understand the events of the Protestant Reformation, the young people and their advisors will travel through Germany, Holland, France, Switzerland and Austria visiting various churches. This will be the fourth work-study program in Youth Christian Ministry sponsored by the church.

The emphasis is in learning to live and work together in Christ.

Continuous operation of the Ecology Center at Stowell and Second avenues in Upland (behind Rugg Lumber Co.) where bundled newspapers, bottles and aluminum cans may be left helps to add to the tour funds. Not all of the groups' efforts go into fund-raising projects, however. They also turn their attention to Mission Outreach. They are planning a pilgrimage to the Indian Wells Mission in Arizona April 10-16 and are inviting other interested people to share in the work experience and other events of the week. New facilities will be constructed and needed repairs will be made. The mission, supported by the general mission program of the United Presbyterian Church, is ministered by John Cook, a full-blooded Navajo Indian, and his wife Rose.

Adult advisors for the Spirit of '76 are the Rev. and Mrs. Robert Gillogly. The youth involved are Cheryl Emrich, Bill Milliken, Jim Cunningham, Sam Kline, Carrie Swenson, Rodger Ransom, Burce Beardwood, Paul Beardwood, Karla Peterson, Ed Moseley, Frances French, Mitch Kaufman, Iris Woodruff, Chris Carlson, Terri Bast and Rodger Watts.

To donate items for the rummage sale, collectibles or antiques, (to be sold on a profit-sharing basis) call (714) 982-1058 or (714) 985-8548.

Church Love Loaf program

An added dimension will give deeper meaning to the sacrament of Holy Communion to be celebrated Sunday at the Valley Community Drive-In Church, Lone Hill Avenue and Covina Boulevard, San Dimas, during both 8:30 a.m. and 11 a.m. services and again at 6:45 p.m., just before the evening Bible study.

Pastor Melvin De Vries has arranged with World Vision International to have the local congregation participate in the Love Loaf program of the worldwide agency which ministers to the physical and spiritual needs of people throughout the world in the name of Jesus. "What more fitting occasion can there be to begin sharing our blessings with hungry people," said Pastor De Vries, "than Communion Sunday? As we reach up with one hand to receive the 'bread of life' from the Lord, we will reach out with the other to those less fortunate than we to give of our abundance."

Love Loaves are small coin containers shaped like miniature loaves of bread which will be kept on the dinner tables as a reminder that while we have much, others have little or nothing to eat. As the family prays for the world's needy, they also put coins in the Love Loaf each day. Even the smallest child can participate," she said.

De Vries said the Love Loaf containers will be left in the homes until Palm Sunday when they will be turned in and the proceeds will be counted. By that time, each should hold at least $20 in coins. The church has designated 50 per cent of the money to be given to the Reformed Church World Service, the mission arm of the Reformed Church in America, the denomination to which the local congregation belongs.

Missionaries to speak

Chilean missionaries Stan and Beryl Moore will speak at a family night potluck dinner 6 p.m. Sunday at Upland United Methodist Church fellowship hall, C Street and First Avenue. The Moores have spent more than a decade working at El Vergel Agricultural School in Chile and will return to Chile to work with the Mapuche Indians.

Health News...

If You've Had an Accident
Stop, Think and Act Wisely
By DR. W.P. HELZER, D.C.

Whiplash neck injuries are among the nation's fastest growing health problems. Why?

The ever increasing number of automobiles rolling onto our congested streets and highways, the mass migration to the suburbs, and increased speed of our freeway systems, power brakes and more powerful engines all contribute to the growing frequency of the type of accident that can result in whiplash neck injuries.

But in one sense, a whiplash can be a blessing in disguise.

You see, a whiplash is by its very nature a problem for the modern Doctor of Chiropractic. He best understands the whiplash injury and is best equipped to cope with it. Consequently we see many new faces who visit us because of our reputation in dealing with the whiplash.

In our examination and care of these people we often discover that whiplash is but one of their problems.

Don't misunderstand me, the whiplash is in itself a most serious injury that can cause arthritis, migraine headaches, extreme nervousness, or many other problems.

This, of course, means that the whiplash injury cannot be left untreated. It will only be that 'blessing in disguise' if the person who sustains the whiplash comes in for a thorough examination and is treated effectively.

If our preliminary exam reveals the presence of pressure on the nerves in the upper part of the spine and the possible displacement of vertebrae we know that a condition can respond to the proper effective treatment.

I might add, that after the first effective treatment, it is not uncommon that a whiplash sufferer will have a first restful sleep since an accident.

Every accident victim should have a thorough modern chiropractic examination.

It is indeed apparent that a person who has had an accident owes it to himself and his family to have an examination to find out for sure. Since every health problem has a cause it's obvious that the cause must be found before a person will get well.

Local lass aids win in swim

Kostoff serves Southern cause

Karen Kostoff is just one of the many fine swimmers toiling for the Chaffey Aquatic Club.

And the Upland lass proved herself quite adept at a recent Southern Pacific Assn./Pacific Assn. qualifying meet when she qualified in three events of the age 11-12 division.

Miss Kostoff had thirds sandwiched around a second. She finished third in the 200 individual medley (2:20.5) and 50 backstroke (30.6), while finishing second in the 100 backstroke (1:04.7).

Teammates who fared well in their final tests before joining school teams for CIF action were Mike Grabowski (Upland), Jim Moore (Claremont) and Danny Davis (Ontario).

Grabowski finished ninth in the 100 backstroke (1:03.1) at the 13-14 level; Moore was 11th in the 100 (50.9), 200 (1:48) and 500 (4:56.8) freestyles in age-group 15-18; and Davis had clockings of 23.4 (50 free) and 52.0 (100 free) in competition with Moore, but went unplaced.

And from her qualifying (only first and second place performers advanced), Karen finished second in the North-South meet in San Francisco with a fine 1:05.6 effort in the 100 backstroke.

Her efforts enabled the Southern team to win the dual meet, which was sanctioned by the Amateur Athletic Union.

In a Winter Relay Championship at Arcadia, CAC amassed 233 points to win the 16-team competition. Other high finishers were Arcadia Swim Club, Cal Tech, Hacienda Heights, Downey Surfside and Antelope Valley.

Entrants were the best swimmer from each age group.

In the Step Relay, the CAC girls finished first in 2:27.2 and the boys were second in 2:25.2.

In mixed medley relay at the 6-8 age level, the combined boys and girls team finished first in the 6-and-under division and fifth in the 7-8 grouping.

In the medley relay, the 9-10 girls tied for second and the boys were fourth; the 11-12 girls won in 2:11.14 and the boys were third; the 13-14 girls were fifth and the boys second; and the 15-18 boys were second.

In backstroke, the combined 6-under and 7-8 teams were third; the 9-10 girls and boys both were second; the 11-12 girls won in 2:14.4 and the boys were second; the 13-14 girls were fifth and the boys won in 1:02.4; and the 15-18 girls were third and the boys won in 1:55.

Breaststroke competition found the 7-8 girls winning in 1:32.9; the 9-10 girls and 9-10 boys both finishing third; the 11-12 girls being second; the 13-14 girls finishing second and the boys winning in 2:15.2; and the 15-18 girls fifth and the boys fourth.

In the butterfly events, the combined 6-under and 7-8 teams were both second; the 9-10 girls were third and the boys second; the 11-12 girls won in 2:11; the 13-14 boys were fourth; and the 15-18 boys were second.

And in freestyle competition, the 6-under and 7-8 teams were again second; the 9-10 girls won in 2:08.8 and the boys were fifth; the 11-12 girls won in 1:56.3 and the boys were fourth; the 13-14 girls were fifth and the boys third; and the 15-18 girls were fifth and the boys were the victors in 1:34.8.

Bicentennial display

Museum seeks art

Paintings of San Bernardino County history are wanted for exhibition at the new San Bernardino County Museum from February 22 to March 31 as a part of the Bicentennial celebration. At least one, and perhaps five, of the paintings submitted will be purchased for the permanent collection of the museum, at a purchase award of $200 each.

Artists may each submit three paintings for the exhibition, delivering them to the lower level of the museum between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. on Feb. 16 or 17. Full information and entry blanks may be obtained from the museum office or from the various art organizations throughout the county.

Paintings for the exhibition, as well as the purchase awards, will be selected by juror Margaret Davis Clark of Redlands. Mrs. Clark served on the board of the Museum Association before she became president of the Redlands Art Association for 1972-73, when she turned her energies to organizing its art courses in cooperation with the Redlands Recreation Department.

"Forty-five years ago, I helped another new museum launch its permanent collection," mused Mrs. Clark. "I was director of the infant Flint Institute of Arts, in Michigan, from 1929 to 1933 and began our collection with a purchase from the annual Michigan Artists Exhibition." Her early career also included state directorship of the WPA Art Program in Wisconsin when the staff included over fifty professional artists.

Mrs. Clark joined the art faculty of the University of Redlands in 1949 and has taught art history also at U.S.C. and Scripps College on a part-time basis. Although she retired from the U. of R. officially in 1971 she has continued to teach one or more courses each year until this season.

"For this exhibition, selection will be on the basis of appropriate subject matter plus vitality of presentation and organization," say Mrs. Clark. "There are tremendous possibilities in the subjects of our history, from early Indian days through the coming of the Spaniards, the Mormons and the great influx of our own times."

Health Tips

Surgery for ears

EDITOR'S NOTE: Health Tips is a column of the California Medical Education and Research Foundation, prepared and edited by physician members of the California Medical Association. It is reprinted by this newspaper as a public service.

An otoplasty is an operation in which protruding ears (commonly called "dumbo ears" or "bat ears") are set back closer to the head.

The operation is frequently done in the hospital but can be performed as an out-patient procedure, depending on the patient, the surgeon and whether general or local anesthesia is used.

The usual approach is to make the incision behind the ear, then weaken the cartilage by scoring or scratching. Stay sutures are then placed in the cartilage to hold the new position. Because the incision is made behind the ear, no scar will show.

Bandages are usually worn for several days. The ears should be wrapped or taped at night for several weeks to protect the ears while sleeping. This completes the recovery period although the ears may be sore or tender to the touch for a few months following surgery.

Prognathism

The correction of jutting jaws (prognathism) can take place as soon as the mandible (lower jaw bone) reaches full growth, at around age 18. This condition, caused by an elongated or "overgrown" jaw bone, is usually an inherited one. Since cases of prognathism are accompanied by malocclusion ("bad bite") the surgery serves the two-fold purpose of correcting the bite and protecting the teeth as well as producing outstanding cosmetic improvement.

The complex surgical procedures involved in prognathism require two to three hours under a general anesthetic. During the operation, both sides of the lower jaw are surgically fractured and then set back and permanently wired in a new position. Next, the teeth are wired in occlusion to form the more perfect "bite." These dental wires remain on the teeth for a six-week period and necessitate a liquid or pureed diet during that time. For the first week following surgery the face may be very swollen and the patient may feel uncomfortable as he or she adjusts to the new position of jaw and teeth, but after this passes little further discomfort is experienced. At the end of the six-week recovery period the dental wires are removed in the doctor's office. The patient goes off of the liquid diet, taking soft solids at first and regaining a regular diet within a week. The names of specialists in the field of plastic surgery are available through your local county medical society.

Casting completed for Hartford play

Producers James A. Doolittle and Zev Bufman have announced that casting has been completed for their full-scale production of Emmet Lavery's "The Magnificent Yankee", which stars James Whitmore as Oliver Wendell Holmes and Audra Lindley as his wife Fanny. The production will open a four-week engagement at the Huntington Hartford Theatre on Feb. 26 and will feature Emory Battis as Brandeis; Jack Murdock as Owen Wister; and Louis Beachner as Adams.

Press Club to hold 'Writes of Spring'

The Press Club of Southern California will hold its 1975 "Writes of Spring" Awards banquet on March 19 at the Pomona Country Club. It was announced this week by Helen Eisworth, club president.

The banquet will be the culmination of a competition among club members for nearly $1,000 in prizes, trophies and awards for excellence in writing, photography, broadcast journalism and public relations work done during the past year.

The judging of over 100 entries is currently being done by the journalism faculty of the University of Oklahoma, according to Eisworth.

"It is through the communications media that people learn and understand the events which shape their lives," Eisworth said. "And, it is by the judgment of their peers in the field that those who do outstanding work will be honored."

The Press Club of Southern California membership is composed journalists, public relations people, free-lance writers and photographers from Los Angeles, Orange, San Bernardino and Riverside counties who meet monthly to develop and enhance the communications arts.

Participants in the awards which will be made in four divisions (writing, photography, composition and public relations, and free-lance work) are: Air California, Albertson's, All-State Insurance Co., Atlantic-Richfield, Covina Chamber of Commerce, General Telephone Co., Gordon Ayers Photo Shop, Great Western Savings, Lockheed Aircraft Services, Pomona First Federal Savings, The Progress Bulletin, Southern California Edison, Sunkist Products of Ontario, United Airlines, Upland Chamber of Commerce, The Daily Report, Southern California Gas Co., Montclair Plaza and Dorothy Banker Turner.

Included in the awards will be $100 cash prize for the sweepstakes winner.

A Woman Ought to Know

More child centers needed

Dear Anita,

I read a long article about child care last week in the Los Angeles Times. Why aren't there more centers where people work? The idea of having my preschoolers right in the same building really appeals to me.

D. H., Los Angeles
Dear D.H.,

A lot of working mothers feel the way you do, but unfortunately work-site child care centers are still rare. Neither government nor private industry has jumped into establishing centers, even though surveys show many employees would welcome such an option.

Here in Sacramento, one state department, the Department of Motor Vehicles, opened a Child Care and Development Center last July on the first floor of their headquarters building, in a cheerful, bright room that was once an auditorium.

The center opens at 6 in the morning, and in addition to a regular work day, has a swing shift until 1 a.m. The center is filled to capacity, and the children receive excellent care, with attention to education, nutrition and health.

When we realize that a third of all women with children under 6 are in the work force today, the need for high-quality child care is obvious. Work-site centers could be one kind of care that would meet the needs of many families, like yours.

Anita Miller

Dear Anita,

I was widowed last year after 26 years of marriage, and I had never held a job outside my home. Believe me, it's not easy finding work at my age, with no "paid" experience. Is there any kind of program to help women like me, who suddenly have to support themselves and don't know how?

V.K. Oakland
Dear V.K.,

We certainly do believe you when you say that it is difficult for women to move into the work force when they are middle-aged, and have no current job skills. There are thousands of women experiencing these problems right now in California.

These women are very often without any regular source of income; they are ineligible for categorical welfare assistance; they are subject to the highest unemployment rate of any sector of the work force; they face continuing discrimination in employment because they are older and have no recent paid work experience. In addition, they are not eligible for unemployment insurance, since they have been engaged in unpaid labor in the home, nor are they eligible for social security, because they are too young.

It is fortunate for you that you live in Oakland, because a pilot program will be underway in Alameda County to assist displaced homemakers, women who have been homemakers, and are "displaced" in their middle years through the death or their spouse, divorce, or other unforeseen loss of family income.

The multipurpose service center will provide displaced homemakers with the necessary counseling, training skills, services and education to become gainfully employed, healthy and independent.

Anita Miller

Dear Anita,

Does the California Commission on the Status of Women have an office in Southern California? I need some help which I think your commission could give me.

I.F., Covina
Dear I.F.,

The California Commission on the Status of Women has only one office, and that is in Sacramento. Our budget is too small to allow us to maintain more offices, even though we know many women would find them helpful.

Fortunately, the commission is able to serve women all over the state, by mail and over the telephone. Won't you write us another letter, and tell us what specific help you need? Or, if you prefer, you can call.

Many California counties and cities now have commissions on the status of women to work on the problems of women in their own communities. There are 27 commissions within the state, ranging from San Diego County in the south to Humboldt County in the north. More than half of all local commissions on the status of women in the United States, as a matter of fact, are in California.

Los Angeles County, where you live, established a commission last summer. Services vary from one locality to another, but this is February 19, 1976, another resource you might want to check.

- When an electric fuse blows, you should:
 - Check circuit for overloading, and cords and appliances for excessive wear or shorts.
 - Substitute a penny, metal washer or wad of tinfoil for the fuse.
 - Call an electrician.
- If a skillet overheats and the grease catches fire, you should:
 - Douse the fire with water.
 - Cover the skillet with a tight-fitting lid.
 - Apply a liberal amount of baking soda or salt.

ANSWERS

1. A. Trouble probably lies in overloaded circuit or defective cords or appliances. Disconnect appliances or lamps on the circuit. If fuse continues to blow, call an electrician. 2. B or C. A liberal application of baking soda or salt extinguishes the flame. A tight-fitting cover will do a good job if it can be found in time. Never pour water on a burning grease fire. Rail firm offices

Union Pacific Railroad will consolidate the office activities of its Pomona and Ontario freight agencies April 1 and establish a mobile agency to serve shippers in that area.

Replacing fixed offices which were opened in the early 1900s, will be a freight office van staffed with a traveling agent and equipped with two-way radio and complete office facilities, said Jack E. Sanford, Union Pacific's California division superintendent.

Sanford said modern communications and public mobility have outmoded the old concept of a fixed agency every 10 or 15 miles along the line.

The new method will, in effect, bring the depot to the shipper.

"We actually can serve our customers in each community better and more personally by having our agent call directly on freight shippers and receivers in the territory," Sanford said.

Inquiries and requests to the mobile agency on a toll-free telephone line will be routed through the Union Pacific agency at City of Industry, the van's base station.

The mobile agent also will be in radio contact with both the base station and with train crews for direct transmission of shippers' orders.

Tax Tips

Exemptions for dependents

EDITOR'S NOTE: Tax Tips consists of information prepared by the California Society of Certified Public Accountants to help people prepare their federal income tax returns. The information is reprinted here as a public service.

Dependency Exemptions

The dependency exemption is $750 for each qualifying dependent. Generally, a person qualifies as your dependent if you provide more than half his or her support, and certain other tests are met (gross income, relationship and citizenship). A dependent's gross income may not exceed $750 for the year. The gross income test does not apply, however, if the dependent is your child and under 19 years of age or a full-time student.

Keep the following points in mind: A foster child can qualify as a "child" for these purposes.

If your child was a full-time student for at least five months of the year and is married, you can still claim your child as a dependent as long as he or she does not file a joint return. If you are married to a nonresident alien, you may not file a joint return, but you may be able to claim the spouse as a dependent and file as head of household if your spouse is otherwise a dependent.

Tax-free income
Most of the usually encountered income items must be included in a taxpayer's income. However, there are a host of income items which are not taxable. Listed below are several of the more commonly overlooked non-taxable income items:

Social security and disability benefits.
Interest on municipal bonds.
Accident and health insurance premiums paid by an employer for an employee.
Benefits under veterans' acts.

"Combat zone" pay for servicemen and women.
Federal income tax refunds (but interest on the tax refund is taxable).
Gifts.
Inheritances.
Life insurance proceeds paid upon the death of the insured under the terms of the contract.

Certain specifically defined scholarships and fellowship grants (not compensation for services).

Multiple support agreements

A $750 deduction may be claimed on 1975 U.S. income tax returns for each person who qualifies as a dependent. To obtain this deduction, several requirements must be met. One is that the taxpayer must provide more than 50 per cent of the dependent's support.

So what happens if several persons contribute to the support of an individual but no one person provides more than 50 per cent? In such a case, the law allows any one person who provides more than 10 per cent of the dependent's support to claim the exemption.

San Dimas Press; LaVerne Leader; The Bulletin; Upland News; Cucamonga Times; Montclair

However, a Multiple Support Agreement (Form 2120) must be signed by each person who provided more than 10 per cent of the dependent's support. These forms must be attached to the tax return of the individual claiming the 0750 exemption deduction.

The filing of Form 2120 is an annual election. Therefore, the dependency exemption may be rotated each year among the several persons who contribute support.

Gnathology will be topic for Doctors' Night fete

Gnathology, the study of the relationship between the teeth and jaw muscles, will be the topic for Doctors' Night to be held by the Pomona Valley Dental Assistants Society.

The dinner meeting will take place Wednesday, Feb. 25, at 7:30 p.m. at Orlando's Restaurant, Pomona. A panel discussion with audience participation will be conducted by R. C. Borland, D.D.S., Richard Nivison, D.D.S., R. Melvin Butler, M.D., John Rugh, Ph. D., and Coralea Harbushka, California Dental Assistants.

Flattering is the word for this turban which is perfect for all ages and all shapes of faces. This is a turban of summer colors which end in a large bow. Turbans are just the thing for that chic look after swimming or a fast tennis set.

Flattery has a head start

Rhoda Morgenstern would call it a schmatte—a piece of cloth she ties around her head to hide the hair she didn't have time to wash.

The Persians called it a "duband," or sash. And the rest of us call it a turban, the traditional Moslem male headdress that the fashion world has adopted with the enthusiasm of an eight-year-old spotting a Daniel Boone cap.

For example, last fall, a milliner named Ernie Pommer brought out a polyester scarf turban called the "Rhoda." Pommer sells to mail order houses and department stores. And in a short time, he says, "one chain sold a couple of thousand dozen," at $3 to $4 per turban.

In the Near East, the turban indicates status, occupation, locale and race according to its shape, color and folds. At least 66 variations of it exist.

Here, where it's simply a hat, there are no folds barred. Anything from a narrow strip of fabric tied around the head just above the forehead and fastened with a clip to an elaborately draped headpiece with flowing streamer is a turban.

A firm called Irene of New York claims to be the only milliner in the country still making hand-draped turbans, which retail at $65 and up in department and specialty stores nationally.

Bob Greene, the designer and owner of the company, produces the original turban, which six copyists then reproduce.

"A girl can make two a day, sometimes three," says Claire Hahn, Greene's associate. "When you start out it's just a strip of fabric which they fit and shape around a 'doll.' You have to know how to drape, which is quite a skill."

The more draping, the more expensive the turban which, Miss Hahn says, is an all-year hat differing only in fabric and color according to season. And every woman can wear one.

"There is a frame for every face and as long as you deal with proportion and get a hat that fits, anyone can wear it."

A round face can wear just about any style, but a full face requires a turban that has bulk on the sides to draw the cheeks outward, and height on top to elongate the face.

On the other hand, height and bulk are to be discouraged on a square or long face. Here, a close fitting cap turban to cut the length of the face, and a smooth, tied-back scarf succeed.

Or an asymmetrical turban whose center part lies off-center and whose draping convenes in a large knot over one ear to break the line of the face.

For day or casual winter wear, turbans in wool and angora are appropriate, for evening, satin and velvet. Summer will see a great number of stripes and solids in polyester or cotton gauze, in lighter colors, of course.

There is one caution. If you're planning a trip to a remote region of Afghanistan or Turkey, keep in mind that at one time at least, the wearing of a turban by a non-Moslem was considered a crime.

This turban is for those who want to feel sophisticated by wearing this head-hugging version. Turbans have come back into fashion after years of oblivion. This form of headdress is becoming to almost every women. Finish off with hoop earrings and feel elegant.

Shana Alexander; writer, editor

Noted woman to speak

Shana Alexander, magazine editor and columnist, author, television personality and founder of the National Women's Political Caucus, will speak on "Women at Work: Reflections and Observations" 11 a.m. Saturday in Garrison Theatre, 10th and Columbia, Claremont.

The lecture, open to the public free of charge, is part of an all-day "Achievement for Women in Careers" conference sponsored by the Career Planning offices of Scripps, Pitzer and Pomona colleges. The conference is funded by the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation of New York 1975 grant to the three colleges.

When she was 17 years old, Ms. Alexander interrupted her formal education to write Sunday features for PM, an experimental New York newspaper. She then returned to Vassar College, earned a BA and, in 1951, joined Life magazine, where she began writing "The Feminine Eye" column in 1964. Ms. Alexander became McCall's magazine's first woman editor in 50 years in 1969 and, two years later, was named McCall's editor-in-chief. In 1971 she also became vice president of Norton Simon Communications. From 1972 to 1975 she wrote a regular column for Newsweek magazine.

In between, the prolific journalist made numerous radio and TV appearances and wrote two books, "The Feminine Eye," a collection of observations and reflections on America 1964-69, and "Shana Alexander's Guide to Women's Legal Rights," dealing with laws pertaining to women in all the states.

Currently Ms. Alexander is writing a book on the Patty Hearst affair and appearing regularly on "60 Minutes" on CBS-TV.

Before and after Ms. Alexander's lecture, students, faculty, alumnae and staff of Scripps, Pitzer and Pomona will attend their choice of workshops on successful career strategies for women held in the Humanities Center at Scripps.

Discussion groups on media, merchandising, museums, health and social services, education administration, law, computer science, ministry, business and management, government and art/design will be led by successful women in those fields.

The Los Angeles Art Center director, a furniture company president, a bank assistant vice president, the San Francisco Unified School District assistant superintendent, a hospital administrator, Business Week magazine writer and large department store chain personnel vice president will be among the workshop leaders. They will discuss how they became successful and how others can be equally successful. There will also be workshops using simulation game techniques.

The conference's grand finale will take place at 3 p.m. in the Humanities Auditorium when Malvina Reynolds, a 76-year-old Berkeley songwriter and folk-singer, will take the stage to play her guitar and sing many of her own message songs about women.

A San Francisco native, Ms. Reynolds has a PhD from the University of California at Berkeley. She has written, published and recorded such songs as "Little Boxes," "Turn Around," "What Have They Done To The Rain" and "Look On The Sunny Side," made famous by performers like Pete Seeger, Judy Collins, Harry Belafonte, Joan Baez and the Seekers. Ms. Reynolds has recorded a number of her own works on Cassandra, Columbia, Century City and Pacific Cascade labels.

Wild and unpredictable camel races are a thrilling attraction for spectators as these beasts of the desert roar around the main arena track every afternoon during the 10-day run of the 1976 National Date Festival in Indio through Feb. 22.

Careful planning window

Careful planning is the key to installing good windows whether you're building a new home or remodeling an existing one.

Several factors other than cost should be considered in the selection of windows, according to Anderson Corporation of Bayport, Minn. They include light, ventilation, view, weather-tightness, ease of operation and low maintenance.

Location is also important. In kitchens, for example, windows should help disperse heat and odors from cooking and should be readily accessible from sink and countertops. A window over the sink, where mothers can easily oversee backyard activity of children, is rated highly by most women.

Casement windows, which are easily opened and closed by rotary operators and which open out 90 degrees to provide top to bottom ventilation, are much favored in hard-to-reach locations such as over kitchen sinks and bathroom fixtures.

Homeowners can get help in window selection in a 24-page color booklet, "How to Get Good Windows and Gliding Doors When You Buy, Build, Remodel." It is free by writing Andersen Corporation, Dept. C-1, Bayport, Minn. 55003.

New roof advice

Quick! What's the color of your roof? If you have to walk outdoors to take a peek, the color is probably right. As the largest unbroken exterior expanse, roof color should either blend with the other elements of the home or contrast with the siding.

Good designers use color indoors and out as a tool to add warmth and eye appeal to a home's appearance. In asphalt shingles, for instance, the latest in design calls for heavy textures in "earthtone" colors such as buff, olive and slate. The textured shingles add depth and dimension with attractive, deep shadow lines to the roof while the earthtone color serves to relate a house to its surroundings.

Low maintenance and durability are additional features. Designed to provide up to 25 years of easy-care service, heavy-textured asphalt shingles can, in many cases be applied over the old roofing material.

STREETWALKER — Jodie Foster stars as a teenage New York streetwalker who gains the friendship of taxi driver Robert De Niro in "Taxi Driver."

LONER — Robert De Niro is an alienated, restless loner who takes a job as a night shift cab driver in New York City and whose personal torment in the shadowy, disturbed life of a city at night becomes the catalyst for the drama.

"TAXI DRIVER" — Robert De Niro, 1975 Academy Award winner, portrays Travis, a chronic insomniac who becomes one of New York City's night people in the Columbia Pictures release "Taxi Driver." The movie, a Martin Scorsese film, stars Cybill Shepherd, Peter

Boyle, Jodie Foster, Albert Brooks, Leonard Harris and Harvey Keitel. The screenplay is by Paul Schrader. Producers are Michael Phillips and Julia Phillips, whose latest production was the Academy Award winning "The Sting."

'Taxi Driver'

Loneliness dramatized

For the most accurate information about the new Martin Scorsese film, "Taxi Driver," one must go direct to the source — screenwriter Paul Schrader, one of the most successful of the current crop of young writers to emerge in Hollywood. Schrader wrote his screenplay in 1972, and Michael and Julia Phillips took an option on the script.

In Schrader's own words, "Taxi Driver," a Columbia Pictures release, dramatizes the all too human condition of loneliness, a human being who moves through the madding crowd, jostled, brushed, ignored or abused, hassled or pandered, but who is somehow utterly untouched by any of it because of his own secret world of fantasy and his inability to communicate with his fellow humans. In short, a lonely man, aching to be noticed, recognized and loved, but unable to attain it.

Schrader, who is not, incidentally, a New Yorker and never has been a taxi driver, made his protagonist a Manhattan cabbie because he felt he was a prime example of a man who moved, worked, walked and talked and yet somehow was invisible to the eyes of the people around him. He is not really a human being in the mind of his customers; he is part of the mechanics of the automobile, an inanimate thing like the steering wheel or the ask trays or the headlights. Dark confidences are freely discussed by his passengers within his hearing, obscenities are performed in the back of his cab within the scope of his rear-view mirror. He is acknowledged briefly when the passenger enters the taxi and then consigned to limbo, a non-existence.

Schrader also has some political comments to make and, although the political figures in the script loom large in the dramatic development from an action point of view, the political aspects of the movie are secondary to the main theme.

Director Scorsese carried his cast and crew to all strata of New York City to catch with stunning realism the rainbow-range of the quality of the Big Apple. There are scenes of posh and elegance and locales of sordid sleaziness, broad avenues and dingy, twisty side streets, public monuments and secret hideaways. Someone once remarked that New York City was the most expensive movie set ever built, and Scorsese has plumbed its riches.

One of the more interesting locations, recognizable mainly to inveterate New Yorkers or "insiders," was the Bellmore Cafeteria on 28th Street and Park Avenue South. The name means nothing to a tourist or even to most New Yorkers, but ask any taxi driver from Coney Island to the Bronx to take you to the Bellmore and he will make a bee-line for the garishly lighted restaurant where the food is plentiful, inexpensive and available virtually all through the night. Outside its wide windows, reflecting the magenta blinking neon sign, one can always find a couple of dozen taxicabs lined up, their "off-duty" signs indicating they are not for hire at the moment. Inside the cafeteria, clusters of cabbies are having their 2 a.m. "lunches" or lingering over cups of coffee and swapping their experiences of the day in uninhibited language. In the center of the complex of chrome-and-tile dining areas is an object unique in New York — a large water-dispensing machine with three spigots, two doling out water and the third supplying free seltzer. What better way to win the heart of a true New Yorker than offering free seltzer or, as it used to be called in the 1930s, "a 2-cents plain." About 20 or 30 block north on that same Park Avenue it would be dispensed by bottle and called "Vichy water."

Other interesting "Taxi Driver" locations included the interior of an 8th Avenue porno movie house, tree-garlanded Columbus Circle, the clamor, clatter and confusion of the Garment District at noon when the fleet of film company trucks, filled with movie equipment, tangled in a bumper-lock death struggle with the vans, trucks and carts of the garment trade.

Scorsese and his case worked calmly, if not coolly (it was 95 degrees in the shade), amid the irate cursing of the truck drivers, the swarms of curious sightseers who came to catch a glimpse of Robert De Niro and Cybill Shepherd, and the frustrated whimpering of taxi passengers who were stuck in the jam and quietly fumed while cab meters relentlessly clicked upwards.

During most of these sequences, Robert De Niro was not too much in evidence. Aside from the necessary scenes that had to be played on the sidewalk, most of his time was spent in his camera-rigged taxi or in his trailer which was parked close by. On the other hand, Cybill Shepherd, Albert Brooks and Leonard Harris (who plays the presidential candidate) sat for hours on end on an open truck platform which comprised a typical political speaker's rolling platform.

Others selected for the cast by the director and by producers Michael and Julia Phillips are Harvey Keitel and Peter Boyle, a star in his own right who plays a cameo role in "Taxi Driver" because of his personal affection for the director. For De Niro and because, in his own words, he felt it was "a great script and just wanted to be part of it."

BROOKS AND SHEPHERD — Albert Brooks portrays a political campaign manager who believes that the relationship between his attractive campaign worker, played by Cybill Shepherd, and a taxi driver will not be meaningful in "Taxi Driver."

Chuck Davis at MSAC Dance concert set

The Chuck Davis Dance Company will present a repertoire of ethnic and modern dance spanning the Black man's heritage from Africa to America 7:30 p.m. Sunday at Mt. San Antonio College.

The concert will take place in gym No. 3. Tickets, $4 for general admission and $2 for students, are available at the MSAC Community Services Office, Wallich's and Liberty ticket agencies.

Chuck Davis, artistic director and choreographer of the troupe, is considered one of the country's most gifted dancers. A protégé of Owen Dodson, Davis has studied classic dance with Emil Faustin, African dance with Pearl Primus, modern dance with Eleo Pomare and jazz dance with Bernice Johnson.

His aim today is to clear up the many misconceptions people have about African dance.

"Most people think that African dance is always fast and wild and yet some of the most flowing and graceful movements come from Africa," said Davis.

He said the nature of the dance depends upon the time, place and season of the ceremony.

"Actually I hate to see the term African dance," said Davis. "It's just too general a term. There are so many cultures on the continent and they all have various ceremonies and dance styles."

Besides performing, Davis lectures in dance at Lehman College in New York City, at Jersey City State College, and is a dance movement specialist with the National Endowment for the Arts.

Under his direction, the company has appeared in concerts on television and in educational and cultural institutions in the eastern U.S.

The company also has offered in-service courses for teachers, classes in ethnic and modern dance for adults and children and lecture demonstrations for community groups and educational and cultural institutions. In addition the Chuck Davis Company operates two academies of dance in New York City.

Highlights of past and present seasons for the troupe's three performing companies (touring, chamber and apprentice) include performances at The American Dance Festival at Connecticut, Jacob's Pillow, Alice Tully Hall, Avery Fisher Hall with Miriam Makeba and the St. Marks Playhouse in New York. The group also appeared at the First National Congress on Blacks

Bicentennial

As a special salute to the nation's bicentennial celebration, the Los Angeles Department of Airports will conduct a sculpture competition which could lead to the commissioning of one or more pieces for display in public areas at Los Angeles International Airport.

Limited to artists residing in California, the competition will offer a $1,000 first prize, a $750 second prize and a $500 third prize. Also, the Department can provide as much as $50,000 for commissioning of several of the works for display.

ROYAL SALUTE — In their first joint appearance on U.S. shores since 1776 the massed bands, pipes, drums and dancers of Her Majesty's Royal Marines and The Black Watch are making a coast-to-coast tour of this country. They will perform 8 p.m. tonight and 1:30 p.m. Saturday and Sunday at the Forum in Inglewood.

PVC concert drive

Karl Ruffing, President of the Pomona Valley Community Concert Association, has announced that membership campaign week is slated for Feb. 23-28 and that the headquarters for the campaign will be at the Ralph Pierce Music Co., 822 N. Garey Ave., Pomona. A special telephone has been ordered for Community Concerts use during the week of the drive. The number will be: 629-6674.

The Pomona Valley Community Concert Association is a non-profit community organization operated entirely by the volunteer efforts of community leaders whose purpose is to bring to the local area fine concert artists, dance and musical attractions to enhance the cultural climate of the community. Admittance to the concert programs is by annual membership card. No tickets are sold at the door. Membership in one Community Concert Association brings with it the reciprocity privilege of attending without charge the programs of other Community Concert Associations in other communities.

As explained by Mrs. Josephine D'Auro, membership chairman, the "organized audience plan" works in this manner: annual dues for membership ($10 for adults and $5 for students) are collected during the week-long membership campaign. At the close of the campaign these funds are expended by the officers and board of directors who sit as an artist selection committee to select the concert attractions for the coming season. To the extent of the seating capacity of the auditorium (Gardner Spring Auditorium, Chaffey High School, Ontario) the more memberships that can be enrolled — the more programs and higher priced attractions can be brought to the community.

Persons wishing to become new members of the association should contact Mrs. Stuart Brockway, campaign secretary, 926 W. Yale St., Ontario 91762. Phone: 986-5789.

Young actress will visit area library

Television star Melissa Sue Anderson will be a special guest at the Pomona Public Library's 10th annual Laura Ingalls Wilder Gingerbread Sociable on Saturday.

Twelve-year-old Melissa co-stars as Mary Ingalls on the popular NBC-TV series "Little House on the Prairie," which is based on the classic children's books by the late Laura Ingalls Wilder whom the Sociable honors and for whom the library's Children's Department is named.

This is the second time Melissa has made a guest appearance at the Sociable. Last year her visit attracted more than 1,000 children and adults to the library.

This year she will give a brief talk about her acting career and the Little House program, answer questions from the audience and sign autographs. Melissa will be at the library from 2 to 3:30 p.m.

Also, an art contest is being held in conjunction with the Sociable. Young people are invited to submit a drawing of their favorite scene from any of the Little House books. The winner will be presented with a paperback set of the nine Wilder books at the Sociable. The name, address and age of the entrant should be printed on the back of each contest submission. Entries should be submitted to the Library's Young Readers Room no later than Thursday.

The Pomona Public Library's close association with Laura Ingalls Wilder dates back nearly three decades to when the Children's Department was officially named the Laura Ingalls Wilder Room. A lengthy correspondence between Mrs. Wilder and then Children's Librarian Clara Webber ensued. These letters form the core of an extensive collection of Wilder memorabilia on permanent display at the Library. An important part of the collection is the original manuscript, written on foolscap tablets, of "The Little House on the Prairie." The collection also includes extensive correspondence with friends and relatives of the Wilder/Ingalls families, dolls, photographs and clippings.

Magic, music at Cal Poly

Children's play opens

ODESSA BALALAIKAS — Two exciting repertoires of traditional and popular Russian folk music will be presented by the Odessa Balalaikas 4 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. Feb. 29 at Mt. San Antonio College, in the Social Science Center Auditorium.

Dressed in colorful traditional costumes of old Russia, the group has an extensive repertoire of Russian folk music, including "Dark Eyes," "Moscow Nights," theme from "Dr. Zhivago" and "Those Were the Days."

"The Hide-and-Seek Odyssey of Madeline Gimple" by Frank Gagliano will be presented by the Drama Department of California State Polytechnic University, Pomona for 11 performances during February, March and April. The play is billed as a "play for children with magic and music," including magic tricks, acrobatics, juggling and sleight of hand, and brilliant bouquets brought forth from slim wands.

"The colorful playground stage is the setting for the games of childhood—the merry-go-round and the teeter-totter, slides and unicycles, kick-the-can, and pogo sticks, hula-hoops and stunts, and an exuberant exhibition of the more contemporary skateboard," said a Drama Department spokesperson. "The setting, the magic, the music, the costumes and the spirit of joy contribute to a unique theatrical event."

The three weekend performances of the play are scheduled in the university theater 1 p.m. March 6 and 7 and April 3. The eight weekday performances are at 11 a.m. Tuesday and Thursday, Feb. 24 and 26; March 2, 4 and 30; and April 1, 6 and 8.

"The Hide-and-Seek Odyssey of Madeline Gimple" is about an orphan, Madeline, who would rather pretend than recognize reality. She invents parents, Hansel and Gretel Gimple, who she says are famous for making cotton candy. Her odyssey is her search for the non-existent parents. Along the way she is beset and frightened by the villainous Balloon Man. She is helped by Litterman and some ingenious children to escape Impulse Inc. and many of the Balloon Man's nefarious schemes. Her journey ends happily when she learns to accept fact as well as fantasy.

The play is directed by Dr. Courtney Brooks.

lecturer in dramatics at Cal Poly who has been associated with children's theater for many years. When teaching at Scripps College in 1972-73, Brooks had her own acting company, Storytellers, which produced film and cassette material for children's theater. The company also gave performances in the Claremont area.

Brooks says she selected "Madeline Gimple" because "It is a delightful and inventive tale of today—not a fairy tale, and yet it has fantasy. These are real kids."

Cal Poly's Drama Department has been producing children's plays for more than 10 years. The Los Angeles Times called last year's "Sleeping Beauty" "one of the best shows in the Children's Theatre Festival."

The weekday performances of "Madeline Gimple" are scheduled so that groups of elementary school children can see the show. Special arrangements have been made to enable as many schools as possible to bring students to the performance.

The role of Madeline will be played by Joan Minich of West Covina, and the Balloon Man will be done by Barry Moore of Covina. Litterman is portrayed by J. Scott Kiphart of San Dimas.

Other members of the student cast include Leslie M. Bush, West Covina; Steve Fowler and Billy Master, Fontana; Sue Ann Carroll, Covina; Christie M. Schultz, Fullerton; Craig Marshall and Redi Bartlett, San Gabriel; Craig E. Nelson, Hacienda Heights; and Terry Vreeland, Arcadia.

Tickets are $1. Group rates are available. For ticket reservations and information call (714) 598-4546 or (714) 598-4549.

Whale migration sighted

An increasing number of gray whales have been sighted between Long Beach and Catalina Island, according to skippers of vessels of Long Beach Catalina Cruises.

The company, in addition to its twice-daily schedule to Catalina Island, offers special whale watching cruises every Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday, and on some Saturdays between now and April 8.

The 50-foot long mammals have been named the California state marine mammal, and weigh up to fifty tons. "They follow the southern California coastline on their annual trip from the Arctic Ocean and Bering Sea," said Chuck Slocumbe, in charge of the special whale-watching cruises. "The calves and breed in the warm waters of Seamounts Lagoon (400 miles south of Long Beach-Los Angeles harbor), or in other lagoons in Mexico, and average 12-14 feet in length when born, and approximately 1300 pounds at birth."

"Whale-watching cruises offer thousands of students and the public an opportunity to observe these mammals from the comfort of our triple-decked, 700-passenger boats," added Slocumbe.

Special rates are available for groups, adults or children. Complete rate and schedule information may be obtained by contacting Long Beach Catalina Cruises at either (213) 775-2654, (213) 435-6616, or (714) 826-2170.

Forest maps to be sold

The San Bernardino National Forest as well as the other national forests in California will begin a new map sales program on March 1.

Beginning on this date, recreation maps for 17 national forests in California will cost 50 cents each.

Revenues received from the sale of maps in California will be put in a special fund for reprinting, updating and production of new maps. Previously, maps have been distributed in small quantities at no charge, with money for the printing coming from congressionally allocated funds. Demand for high quality maps has increased steadily over the years along with the cost of producing them.

Recreation maps for sale under the new system may be purchased at any National Forest supervisor's office, ranger station or from the regional office in San Francisco.

Things to see and do in the Southland

Moore as John Hancock, William Mallory as Edward Rutledge and Russell Arms as John Dickinson. The engagement runs through Feb. 21.

Bluegrass band in concert

Country Gazette, perhaps the first bluegrass band to turn good-time mountain music into a universally-accepted form, will perform in concert at the University of California, Riverside, Feb. 21 at 8 p.m.

Tickets for the University Theatre show, which also includes the Claremont bluegrass band Occurrence at Owl Creek, are on sale at the UCR Commons desk. If available, they will also be sold at the door the night of the show.

Since their formation as a group in 1971, the Country Gazette lineup has undergone a variety of changes. The present makeup includes three of the original founding four—banjo player Alan Munder, bassist Roger Bush and guitarist Kenny Wertz.

The fourth member, guitarist Roland White, is the brother of legendary folk guitarist Clarence White and is also a respected musician, first achieving bluegrass notoriety as a member of the now-defunct Kentucky Colonels.

Their guitar-banjo-bass-mandolin instrumentation lacks one traditional bluegrass element—a fiddle, as had been provided by co-founder Byron Berline and his successor, Dave Ferguson.

But all the other elements remain as strong as ever—the fast flat-picking style and high-harmony vocals that work comfortably in traditional tunes like "Sally Goodin" and "Black Mountain Rag" and more contemporary music like the Beatles or Elton John.

Country Gazette has recorded two albums on United Artists—"Traitor in Our Midst" and "Don't Give Up Your Day Job"—which sold more briskly in the pop music market than any previous bluegrass band. A live album recorded in Los Angeles will be released soon.

Bush and Wertz, both Southern Californians, were versed in the 1960s folk-rock school with musicians like Byrds David Crosby and Chris Hillman, and the White brothers. Bush was an original member of the Kentucky Colonels and Wertz was with several bands prior to Country Gazette.

Skateboard races, a pantomime circus, magic show and a log-sawing contest are among the today to Feb. 29 activities listed herein (subject to change without notice), as compiled by the Automobile Club of Southern California.

Bottle brushes, native to Australia, can be easily trained into small trees. These versatile evergreens are fast growing and bear colorful flowers in dense spikes spring through summer.

Catch color show from camellias now

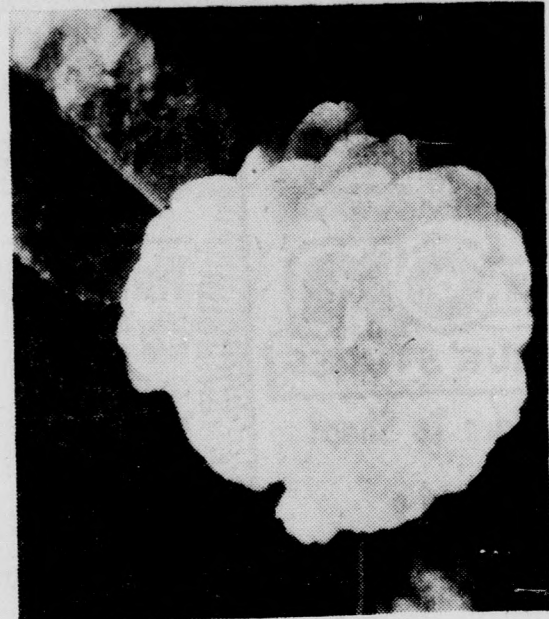

Visit your local nursery to catch the colorful show of camellias on display. By selecting camellias now, you can assure yourself the best choice of colors and types of flowers.

You'll want to select camellias in bloom to see how the flowers sit on the bush — do they face up or down? How double are the flowers — and is "rose-pink" more rose or pink?

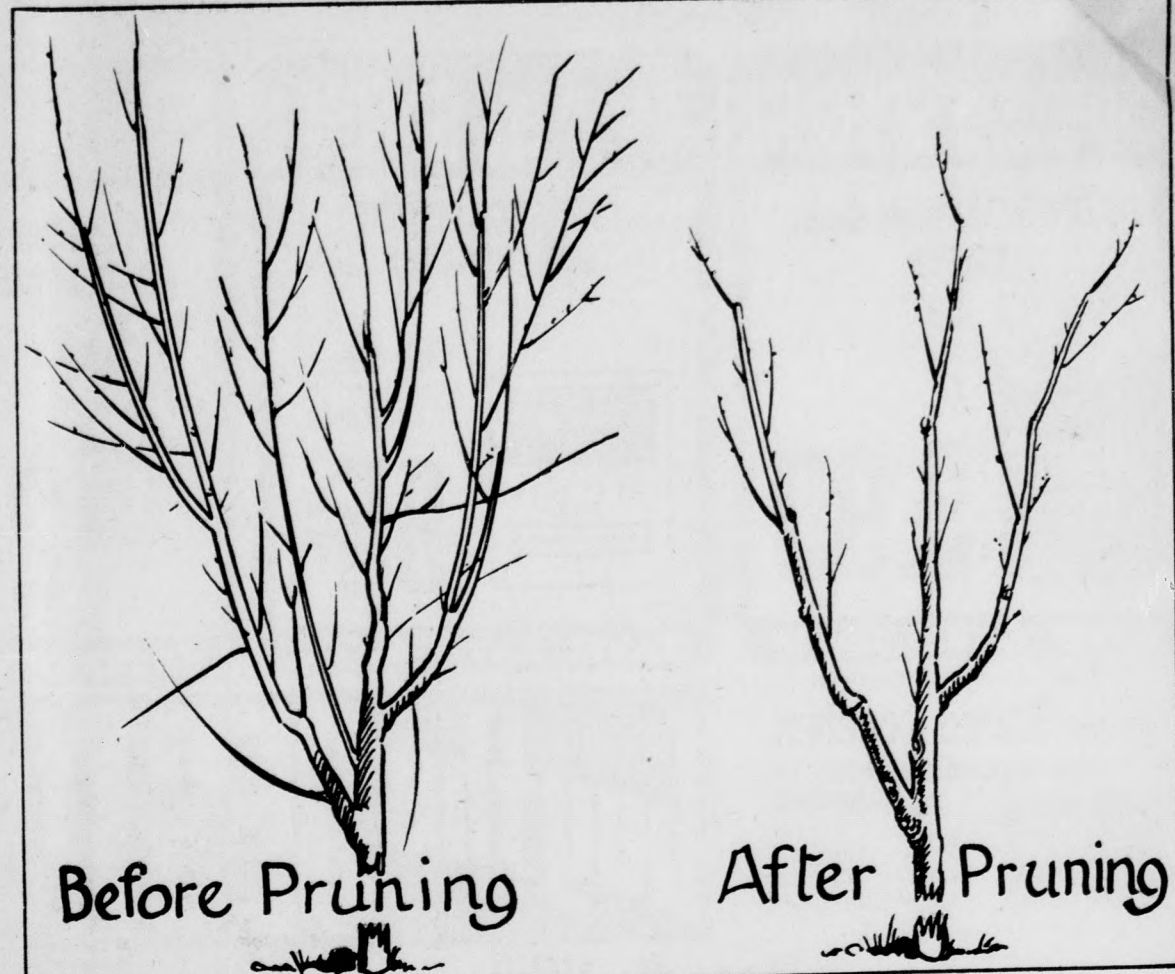

Among camellias, Sasanquas are the first to cover themselves with flowers. The willowy Sasanquas display their delicate blossoms from autumn through early winter. As Sasanquas start to fade, Japonicas take over, providing the widest range of color and flower forms.

And camellias are versatile as well as showy. Their glossy green leaves make them a favorite foundation plant, and their height makes them excellent for use as a backdrop to your flower beds. In tubs, on patios and balconies, they add an elegant touch.

In areas where the soil is poorly drained, or alkaline, container grown camellias are the way to go. Camellias like well-drained, slightly acid soils. Your local nurseryman can help you create the best growing medium with organic soil amendments like peat moss and acid producing fertilizers. Harmful accumulated salts can be leached from the soil too.

Camellias bloom throughout fall and winter beginning in September and continuing into April. Many of the early varieties still are showing color, including this large formal white-flowered variety, alba plena.

Pruning dormant trees this winter can improve the appearance and structure of your trees. Eliminate dead wood, cross-over branching and limbs which distract from the desired form. Make pruning your first step toward larger peaches, nectarines, apricots, plums and other fruits. By pruning out unwanted branches, you'll be forcing the tree's food energy into the remaining buds. Pruning for a good tree structure will improve the health of your tree.

Select trees for garden

When choosing trees for the small or even the moderate size yard, avoid relying solely on the fastest growing species of trees. A Monterey pine is a beautiful tree, growing upwards of 4-5 feet a year, but give it lots of room. In 15 years you could have an 80-foot-tree which throws your house into the shadows and out of sight.

Often the fastest growers require yearly pruning. For example, the fruitless mulberry, Morus alba, frequently grows so quickly as a young tree that the dense crown catches the wind like the sail of a boat causing the tree to snap in two. The branches should be thinned and shortened to keep the tree in balance.

However, there are trees that do fit in small gardens and take a minimum amount of care. A bottle brush, Callistemon viminalis, can be trained into a tree form very nicely, and the red flowers will provide color during the warm months of spring, summer and fall. Another tree that will add much as a focal point in your yard is the strawberry tree, Arbutus unedo. The heavily textured limbs twist and bend to add to the charm of the tree which blooms small bell-like flowers and bears deep red fruit in the fall.

Celebrate with red, white, blue

Before you prepare the soil in your flower beds consider that we only get one chance to celebrate our nation's 200th birthday and what a spectacular gesture a red, white and blue flower garden will be! Perhaps you'd like to enlarge your bedding area to accommodate a Bicentennial floral design or add a few more hanging baskets to the porch.

Develop your own flair for color with free form patterns of red, white and blue. Plant the red, white and blue shades of verbena or easy to grow bachelor buttons in large blocks to make the colors stand out. Petunias in patriotic shades make a beautiful display in tubs and flow naturally from hanging baskets. Ask your nurseryman for a compact variety that displays good basal branching and is free flowering.

Applying weed killer

Your lawn may be resting through the winter, but weed seeds will start germinating this month in the warmer regions of the state. To help keep the much talked about weed, crabgrass, under control, many California gardeners will be applying pre-emergence weed killers to their lawns.

The first step toward good lawn-weed management is correctly identifying your weed problems because it does little or no good to apply a crabgrass control to many of the crabgrass look-alikes. Simply take some weed samples from your lawn to your local membership nursery of the California Association of Nurserymen for a quick identification.

Plants like humidity

Seemingly constant high humidity in the bathroom — long considered a liability — can be turned into a plant-growing asset, says Leslie Wood, consumer information specialist. Ferns, ivy, begonias, springers, bird's nests and most other tropical plants will thrive in your bathroom.

Pick up pruning shears

The leaves have fallen from deciduous fruit trees and ornamental specimens. To the California gardener that means it's time to pick up the pruning shears and make some important cuts to encourage healthy growth this spring.

Make pruning your first step toward larger peaches, nectarines, apricots, plums and other fruits. By pruning out unwanted branches, you'll be forcing the tree's food energy into the remaining buds.

Pruning for a good tree structure will improve the health of your tree by permitting more light and air to reach the inside of the tree. And the improved structure will help the tree to support its load of fruit with less risk of damage to the tree.

Peaches and nectarines should be pruned back hard. These are vigorous growers and since the fruit is borne only on the current season's growth, forgetting to prune will soon put your fruit out of reach. The California Association of Nurserymen suggests that you contact your local nurseryman for pruning advice for these and other fruit trees.

Ornamental specimens such as flowering cherries and plums can be pruned before the flower buds open.

This gopher-proofed raised bed is 12 inches high and the bottom is lined with sturdy 1/2-inch wire mesh. Raised beds also make for healthier plants.
